Civil War 'Camp' At Park

A special living history program will be presented at Appomattox Court House National Historical Park from June 17 through June 25. An authentic Civil War camp will be made by members of the 3rd Arkansas Regiment Volunteer Infantry, Confederate States of America. Most of the men who belong to this unit are from Michigan and are volunteering their time as a public service. The group has a widespread reputation for authenticity and historical accuracy in their dress, their equipment and their presentations.

School Census Is Underway

It's school census-taking time in Appomattox county and much depends on the accuracy of enumerators and the cooperation of households in which they will be calling in the weeks ahead.

Mrs. Thomas Richarson and Mrs. Royal Moore are theenumerators in this county.

State law now requires a school census every three years. In 1968, the law was changed from every five years to the shorter period and 1971 is the year for the new count involving young people.

The law requires that the name, age, address and other pertinent family information be collected for each child within the county one year of age through 19 years of age.

Statistics from the school census are used by the State in determining distribution of the one per cent state sales tax proceeds to cities, towns, and counties. This fund is used exclusively for public education in Virginia and is allocated on the basis of the number of children of school age.

There are other fund allocations based on results of these counts, and the accuracy of census enumerators is vital to fair distribution, school officials have pointed out.

Statistical sumaries from the school census are also used by the localities and by the state in planning to meet future educational needs and as an aid in future educational policies at both the local and state levels.

School building needs, for example, are projected on the data furnished in the census. Teacher requirements and a host of other determinations can be made and met most realistically where counts are a matter of visits to the homes and not speculation.

A late registration will be held at Robert E. Lee Academy for all parents who wish to enroll their children in grades kindergarten through 9 for the 1971-72 school session. This registration will be held Friday and Saturday June 18th and 19th from the hours of 9:00 till 6:00.
